

THE GOAT PROJECT

NEPAL

It began as a simple, yet sustainable gift. Women across the globe received young goats, helping them find financial stability, independence, and dignity in the face of great risk. Today, WAR has expanded this program into a multi-dimensional, animal husbandry project. Businesses thrive through farming start-ups. Families live with hope as they use new farm equipment. And orphanages cut costs and boost health with the help of pigs and rabbits. Children in developing communities can finally attend school and return home knowing there will be food on the table and a future ahead of them. As you help break generational cycles of poverty, you bring home the knowledge of great and global impact.

STORIES OF RESCUE & EMPOWERMENT

COUNTRY: NEPAL • PROGRAM: MICRO-ENTERPRISE

Kamala

Life in rural Nepal left Kamala with little education and little opportunity for employment. Extreme poverty sentenced her to malnourishment, illness, and deep depression. Doctors told Kamala that her life was hopeless, but WAR partners looked through the darkness and offered a bright future. The gift of two goats turned into a small but thriving microenterprise, enabling Kamala to purchase medicine, food, home facilities, and find hope. Two goats quickly turned into eight and when WAR discovered that these animals were living in her kitchen, partners stepped in to build a small shed, continuing to remind Kamala of her dignity and worth. Today, Kamala's business can benefit the whole community, providing milk, meat, and the promise of agricultural development.
